Armoured Company Chicago lotoxins. They are not found in the culture media in which the organisms grow, are isolated with difficulty from the micro-organisms, and then only after their death, and do not produce symptoms of the specific disease if injected subcutaneously or otherwise, although they may produce severe symptoms and even death. The toxic power of these bacteria is intrinsic, and is dependent in great part upon their invasion. 4. Natural Defenses of the Body Against the Invasion of Micro-Organisms. Nature, with its unlimited resources, has endowed the human body with many wonderful and varied devices and means for defending and protecting itself against the invasion of micro-organisms, and for neutralizing the deadly poisons as they are formed during the growth of lhesc bacteria within the body....
